GUTTA PERCHA.

O MANUFACTURERS OF INDIA RUBBER AND gutts percha.—Mr William Rior, in a card signed by a, as President of the North American Gutts Perchampan, published on the lith instant, in reply to a card not by Charles Goodyser, ontitled 'Caut on to Manufacters of India Rubber, Gutta Percham,' &c., says there are o errors in the statement made in that card. The first in the new presentation has been made by the company that purchasers of the stock of said company, &c. will juine 'the right to use Goodysar's patented process of vulcanisation,' but, on the contrary, they say, 'Rider's patent worked without the use of Goody ar's.' By this statement, Mr. Rider means one of three things:—I. That they do tuse Goodysar's was for vulcanising india rubber, and Rider's is for vulcanising gutta percha, or, 2. That in vulcang gutta percha, Rider does not use the process patental by odysar in vulcanising undia rubber, or, 3. That Rider man go Goodysar's process, without which addition Goodnam to Goodysar's process, without which addition Goodnam's process would be useless in the vulcanistation of gutta Ola.

Now. if Mr. Ridor means, by the third proposition, that hecause he has made an addition to, or an improvement on, Geodycar's p occas, and procured a patent for it, he can use Goodycar's patented process in connection with his own patented improvement, before the expiration of Goodycar's patent, without liability as an infringer thereon, he contends against one of the plainest principles of law.

curring of caoutchouc, or India Rubber, by subjecting it to the action of a high degree of artificial heat, substantially as sescribed, &c."

Mr. Rider probably means, therefore, by the statement that he does not use it because Goodynar's process indica," that he does not use it because Goodynar's process indica," that he does not use it because Goodynar's process indica, "hat he does not use it because Goodynar's process in for vulcanizing Gutta Percha, which was our first proposition. That this is his meaning, appears also from other statements made by him, vis,—"That the company would have a clear right to use Goodynar's process if it chose, begause Goodynar's practure is only for vulcanizing India Rubbor, assignited, "That they are not chemically or mechanically alike." New it is not our purpose, at this time, to show the incorrectness would not be sufficient for Mr. Rider's purpose, or those ats cisents because the admission of their substantial correctness would not be sufficient for Mr. Rider's purpose, or prove his case, though in passing we will simply say, that Dr. Pauc, in an article published by him in Silliman's Journal, while casminer in the Patent Office, treat of gutta percha as a modification of caoutchouc; and says, that Dr. Pauc, in an article published by him in Silliman's Journal, while casminer in the Patent Office, treat can be accompanyly green to a cautchouc, and spread are allowed to the summer of the professor Silliman, in the a sum journal, says the chemical relations of gutta percha are almost identical with those of caoutchouc, Separated from its impurities by hot water, and from the accompanying resins by alcohol and ether, and submitted te analysis, it gave, according to Souberain, earboa 87 & 10ths, hydrogenji2 2 Joths; while, according to Parraday, caoutchouc gave, carbon 87 2 Joths, dydrogen 12 Parraday, outchouc gave, carbon 87 2 Joths, dydrogen 12 Parraday, outchouc gave, carbon 87 2 Joths, dydrogen 12 Parraday, coutchouc in the process of vulcanizing this last named materia this; and Rider himself states, in the specification to very patent, that "there has been an erromeous continuous that guita purchas is identical in constitution and ractor with gum elastic, and that every operation in the ness of vulnealing this last named material might be ited to this treatment of gutte percha. "We say the addition that the two substances, cacutcheous and gutta in that the two substances, cacutcheous and gutta has, are not the same, or indentical either chemically or handeally, will not suffice for Mr. Rider's defined against stion for intringement of Goodyear's patent. It is enough eur purpose that they are manipulsed so from the summary of the summary elaimed in so many words in the specification, (as is the case with some patents which have been taken out for vulcanizing eacutoheuc,) or not. The legal effect is the same, and the fact that gutta percha was not known at the time Goodysar's patent was granted, is in Goodysar's favor. There is no doubt of the correctness of this principle, and the Patent effice so decided on this yory application of Rider's for a patent. Does Mr. Rider deny this. Until he does it is idle for him to deny the liability of purchasers of the stock of the company or licenses under Rider's patent, as infringers of Goodysar's patout. Mr. Rider inquires "why don't Goodysar's patout, Mr. Rider inquires "why don't Goodysar's net to company?" Some of the reasons why prosecutions have not seener commenced he stands why prosecutions have not seener commenced he stands why prosecutions have not be corporate expand we lidd knews. The company in its corporate expand we lidd knews. The company in the corporate capacity we lidd knews. The company in the corporate capacity we lidd knews. The company in the company has been conflicted in the Company, and now knew of but one. Perhaps Mr. Rider will not object to give us the names of some of the meat responsible of them.

But all that the Company have done (except what they have done as infringers on Goodysar's Patent in vulcanizing India Rubber) to perfect the manufacture of vulcanized Gutta Persha, and to render it profitchles as a business which will require the expenditure of much time and money, if it is ever experienced (as was the ease with vulcanized India Rubber) to perfect the manufacture of vulcanized Hubber to perfect the manufacture of vulcanized Gutta Persha, and to render it profitchals as a business which will require the expenditure of much time and money, if it is ever experienced (as was the ease with vulcanized India Rubber) to perfect the manufacture of vulcanized fluid Rubber to perfect the manufacture of vulcanized fluid Rubber to perfect the manufacture of vulcanized fluid Ru
